BANKING

New Hire

Sean Wetherbee

Sean Wetherbee has joined TriState Capital Bank as National Sales Director for Key Accounts. In this role, Wetherbee is responsible for developing sales strategies, building strong relationships with clients and opening new distribution channels. With 14 years of wealth management and product experience, Wetherbee joins TriState Capital after working at Charles Schwab as the director of wealth platform strategy for advisor services. "Sean has a record of delivering strong results and helping clients realize their long-term goals," said Chuck Fawcett, TriState Capital Bank's chief banking officer. "His leadership is a great fit for our team as he promotes TriState Capital's private banking services."

CIVIL ENGINEERING

Announcements

SAN DIEGO | LOS ANGELES | SACRAMENTO | SALT LAKE

Latitude 33 Planning & Engineering recently expanded its Southern California presence with the opening of a new office in downtown Los Angeles. Opened in mid-March, Latitude 33's new office is at The Collection, located at 527 W. 7th St., 9th Floor, directly across the street from the award-winning Bottega Louie. With this growth, Latitude 33 has hired new team members and promoted top performers.

Kyle Boyce

Kyle Boyce, promoted to Principal, has been the engineering lead on local projects totaling more than $3 billion. In his 11 years as a civil engineer, he has worked on institutional, civic, healthcare, and life science projects across Southern California. With a skill at highlighting constructability issues early, and the ability to coordinate multiple complex design and construction schedules, Kyle often tackles Latitude 33's large-scale developments, such as the $2.5-$3 billion UC San Diego Hillcrest Medical Campus Redevelopment. Last year, Kyle was named one of San Diego's "Top 40 Under 40" by the San Diego Business Journal.

Jason Gordon

Latitude 33 also promoted Jason Gordon to Sr. Project Manager. He has a decade of civil engineering experience in parks and natural spaces, higher education facilities, life science developments, utility infrastructure, road work, and residential subdivisions. Jason oversees site planning, civil utility and grading design, construction feasibility, water modeling systems, and construction administration. He is also proficient in low-impact design, and finding creative solutions to water quality and drainage challenges in regions with exceptionally strict criteria.

Jacqueline Reed

Latitude 33 has recruited new Project Development Director, Jacqueline Reed, DBIA, to spearhead company-wide business development and provide local leadership in the new Los Angeles office. Ms. Reed brings 13 years of industry experience, most recently in the general contracting sector. She is proficient in various delivery methods, including design-build, and project types including K-14 and multi-family. She also serves on the board of several industry organizations such as the DBIA-WPR, WiOPS Southern California Chapter, and the AGC of Orange County.

Saul Llanes

Another new addition to the Latitude 33 team is Saul Llanes as Project Manager. Saul brings more than 10 years of civil engineering experience, most recently with single family, small commercial, and subdivision projects within the north coastal communities of San Diego. He has managed numerous residential projects and assisted developers with feasibility assessments, permitting, and construction management. He also has experience as a stormwater engineer, and is fluent in both English and Spanish.
